Using both their star hurlers, Phoenix and Tempe will meet at Grant park today in a test game to determine whether or not the teaming of the Bears gave to Phoenix and Mesa last Sunday was a fluke or the result of good team work. Oviedo, the heady hurler of the southsiders, will get a chance to pit his curves and noogie against the experience of Barrett, who has been resting in the Phoenix infield for the last few games.

In order to throw Barrett on the mound, Manager Baum has had to engage "Kern" Warren for second base, where the pitcher has been unmired since his last full game against Mesa.

The addition of Griffen to the Tempe lineup fills the gaping hole that was bothered at first base. It will also give Laidin a chance to rearrange his bouquet of players. A little more pep in the infield and the Bears are likely to show Phoenix that it was no mere accident last Sunday.

STEAL BASES FOR M'GRAW'S GIANTS

More speed on the bases!

That's what every wise big league major now appears to be striving for. It's what John McGraw, New York Giants' leader, and Branch Rickey, boss of the rejuvenated Browns, are seeking.

McGraw has in his lineup four regular infielders and three outfielders who can be counted upon to steal 35 bases each this season. To make his "thirty-five" base stealers, McGraw had to insert Bob Bescher, formerly of the Cincinnati Reds, in his outfield, and Milton Stock, Mobile graduate, in the third base job.

The base stealing records of the present Giant regulars last season is: Merkle 35, Doyle 28, Fletcher 27, Stock 25, Burns 19, Bescher 28, Murray 25. Bescher is the star of the lot.

Scoopology

The pessimist is a man who says, "Turn! I bet that tire is all shot to pieces!" and gets sore when he finds it isn't.

In olden time we rode a horse. Or went afoot which sure was worse.

When leaving our abode; But now we give the gas a spark And listen to our motor bark. And scold at down the road.

In olden times we had to walk. When Dobin set his feet to balk. And then we sure were in it; But now we do not need to hike But buy ourselves a motorbike. And go a mile a minute!

They are not all contracts that the cub signs. Neither is it always favor with which a big league manager cusses the rookie. These bits of baseballosophy shamelessly stolen from the notebook of Horace Big Griffen.

Which is worse, O Friendly Fan, Whose wisdom makes you bald, A downright hone, like 'cloy can Make or one that was signaled?

This is excellent poetry—not, it doesn't convey any meaning—not. You are sure to like it—no.

Cheer up. When we get this column out of its swaddling clothes, maybe we will be able to write better poems. We threaten.

Oviedo, don't you feel thyself slipping? 'Con't conjure the image of this bleeding self, hurled from the knoll? If not, tell it to Laidin and he'll raise the wages—a nickel.

While thought wanders around and about, and twice in a while turns to reveal its seriousness, and we put it all down on white paper, very faithfully, we sometimes hear the surging mob query with rumbling noise, "What's the use?" If the crowd knew how valuable that thought is, it would say, "Why do you let it wander?"

EMPRESS PLAYS
SAVOYANS TODAY

At Churchill grounds, or wherever the indignant townsfolk will permit, the Savoy and Empress theater attaches will play one or a fraction of one baseball game. The line-up:

The prize is a lot of that material which comes in bags.

"Some Jane" Wins Fiver
From "Shorty" Fremreau

Featuring Miss Jane O'Rourke, speed-demon.

With one six-cylinder Cole tourer, Miss Jane O'Rourke of the Columbia, on a fast five miles on the state fair track, and narrowly defeated "Shorty" Fremreau, the daring driver of a "Tour" of the same make.

Surely, "Shorty" has an alibi. Here it is right at the start: "This car is new, and stiff, and I don't dare open her clear up!" But the victor congratulated the vanquished one, and let him hold her hand while McCulloch's camera clicked. So 'twas all right, with the kindness of Johnny Aiken, the track was cleared. Miss O'Rourke drove out to the fair grounds with Manager Hart of the Columbia, Proprietor Dubois of the Cole agency, "Sawyer" Grant of the Columbia bill, and the inevitable newspapermen.

Promptly on the dot, the cars shot away from the tape. Without any preliminary practice, it was hard for the woman driver to master the left-hand drive, but she got away in the lead, and kept "Shorty" chewing particles of state fair track all the way. Her time for the five miles was 2:19, and her best lap she negotiated in 3:30, which is some traveling even for a six-cylinder Cole with a woman pilot.

was taken off the rubber after the sixth, and Joe Bush held the visitors without a hit or run the last three innings. Dausz weakened after the fifth, and was given poor support resulting in six errors, five of which figured in the scoring.
